MESSAGE FROM THE DIRECTOR

This year has been like no other in recent history. Together we have faced a pandemic, increased racial violence, economic hardships, and all the pain and struggles these things have brought. In response, the community, DCHS staff and so many key partners have demonstrated extraordinary strength and commitment to address and find solutions in these uncertain times. We have seen kindness, innovation and fortitude focused on responding to the unprecedented challenges in what has been a truly a remarkable year.

In the following report, you will see data and stories that illustrate the power of what has occurred. We employed many strategies to respond effectively to the needs of our clients. Our rapid transition to a virtual environment was essential to ensure access and responsiveness to those we serve. We were able to quickly utilize telehealth solutions that made it possible for clients to continue to remain in contact and receive care in safe and responsive ways. We were also able to maintain in-person services while focusing on the health and safety of our staff and the clients who needed face to face contact. We also focused on the health and safety of our staff, who needed to continue serving clients in need of face-to-face contact. Our outreach and our communications have reflected the diversity of our community, and we have worked extremely hard to ensure that we are reaching everyone in our community who need us.

The ravages of the pandemic, disproportionately impacting Black and Latinx residents, were profound. Residents with low incomes and vulnerable housing, employment, and food resources, were placed in untenable situations. Thankfully, the Department was given access to CARES funding that made it possible to provide critical support to address the complex needs across our community. This work could not have been done without our committed and skilled non-profit partners and volunteers.

And in the midst of responding to the pandemic, multiple killings of Black Americans, including the videorecording of George Floyd's murder, brought national attention to the ongoing injustices and violence endured by many Black and Brown people and demonstrated the need to address the rampant racism in our country's institutions. Within DCHS, we have worked to address those elements of our Department that contribute to and perpetuate racial inequities. The establishment of our Racial Equity Core Team, significant training of staff at all levels and the establishment of Racial Equity Commitments have moved us forward toward achieving racial equity in our organization, our services, and our community. We will continue to focus and act with urgency on advancing racial equity for ALL Alexandrians.

We have learned so much about how flexible and nimble we can be during these challenging times; we will continue to use these lessons to inform our practices going forward. In addition, we recognize that it is imperative that we continue to work together, continue our practices of self-care and care for our community.

I am eternally grateful to our staff, volunteers, community partners and City leadership for all that they have done to ensure the safety, economic security, and well-being of our residents. The commitment and generosity that has been demonstrated truly made a difference in thousands of Alexandrians' lives.

Kate Gray

Tech Services responded to the call to apply resources and technologies to support our employees, clients and community at the onset of the pandemic. Tech staff provided laptops to support increased telework, added cloud-based telehealth services, a customer call center text line to support overflow from regular calls, a range of online collaboration and presentation tools, and expanded use of electronic signatures to allow DCHS to continue providing services at a time when demand for these services was increasing rapidly due to COVID-19.

The Facilities Team worked to ensure the safety of staff and clients throughout the pandemic though additional measures beyond use of personal protective equipment such as installation of plexiglass barriers, reconfiguration of spaces, increased cleaning and sanitizing, ventilation and filtration, and effective building signage.

Human Resources worked with DCHS staff to research and draft new policy on compensating employees for use of their non-English language skills in assigned duties. This additional compensation, which will be piloted in DCHS during FY21, will enable the City to attract and retain talented multilingual staff who can be of valuable service to residents with limited English proficiency.

The Operations Director led planning for a new site located on Mark Center Drive to host the majority of DCHS programs and services along with those from the Health Department and Neighborhood Health. The consolidation will save taxpayers more than $18 million over 15 years and result in long-term City ownership, while significantly improving service delivery for clients and working conditions for staff. The Operations Director collaborated across DCHS to establish the layout and design for the single location site, which is expected to open in 2023.
